

Brook Farm Group set to break ground on multifamily project this month

Amenities at The Sinclair at Callaway Farm include a 9,000-square-foot clubhouse, resort-style pool, two-story gym and coworking space. - photo by Special Photo

Emily Rose Hamby

Published: Aug 11, 2023, 8:42 PM

COVINGTON, Ga. – Brook Farm Group is set to break ground on their 388-unit multifamily project in Covington this month. Located on the southwest corner of Alcovy and City Pond roads, The Sinclair at Callaway Farm will “provide luxury rental homes with best-in-class amenities.”

To Brook Farm Group’s co-founder and chief operating officer, Peter DiCorpo, Covington is an optimal location for the project due to its flourishing job market.

“I think that Brook Farm Group is a company that looks at opportunities in growth markets as well as lifestyle markets,” DiCorpo said. “Covington [is] actually a wonderful example of both. I think that there has been kind of a supply demand imbalance between the jobs that are coming in and the availability of housing. We love the town. It’s a beautiful, bucolic, southern town.”

LATEST

Millage rate correction, retirees’ cost of living, new online tool discussed at city council meeting

Rep. Hank Johnson visits the Garden of Gethsemane Homeless Shelter

Troop 18012’s ‘girl-led’ dog park project yields community support

Progress is steady at Covington Town Center